

Ethics and Malpractice Statement

By submitting an article to this journal you agree to comply with the following Publication Ethics and Malpractice Statement.

Duties of the Editorial Board

Publication Decisions: Editors are responsible for deciding which of the manuscripts submitted to the journal should be reviewed and published.

Fair Play: The editor ensure that each manuscript received by the Journal is reviewed for its intellectual content without regard to sex, gender, race, religion, citizenship, etc. of the authors.

Confidentiality: Editors will treat received manuscripts for review as confidential documents and will not disclose any information about submitted manuscripts to anyone other than the corresponding author, reviewers, other editorial advisers, and the publisher.

Disclosure and Conflicts of Interest: Editors and any editorial staff will not use materials disclosed in a submitted manuscript (published or unpublished) for their own research without the author's written authorization.

Quality Assurance: Editors will implement processes to assure the quality of published material.

Duties of the Reviewers

Contribution to Editorial Decision: Reviewers assist in the editorial decision process and as such should express their views clearly with supporting arguments.

Promptness: Reviewers should complete their reviews within a specified timeframe.

Confidentiality: Reviewers should keep all information regarding papers confidential and treat them as privileged information.

Standards of Objectivity: Reviews should be conducted objectively, with no personal criticism of the author.

Acknowledgement of Sources: Reviewers should identify published work in manuscripts that has not been cited by the author. Reviewers should also notify the Editors of significant similarity or overlap between the manuscript and any other published or unpublished material.

Disclosure and Conflicts of Interest: Reviewers should not review manuscripts in which they have conflicts of interest resulting from competitive, collaborative, or other relationships or connections with any of the authors, companies, or institutions connected to the papers.

Duties of the Author(s)

Reporting Standards:

Authors of original research should present an accurate account of their work performed as well as objective discussion of its significance. Fundamental data should be presented accurately. Submissions should contain sufficient detail and references to permit others to replicate their work. Knowingly submitting inaccurate statements constitutes unethical behavior and is strictly prohibited.

Data access and retention: Authors may be asked to provide the raw data in connection with manuscripts for editorial review, and should be prepared to provide public access to such data if possible.

Originality and Plagiarism: All manuscripts must be the original work of authors and not evidence plagiarism.

Multiple, redundant or concurrent publication: Authors must not submit the same manuscript to more than one journal concurrently.

Acknowledgement of Sources: Authors should acknowledge all sources of data used in the research and cite publications that have been influential in research work.

Authorship of the paper:

The corresponding author should ensure that all appropriate co-authors and no inappropriate co-authors are included on the paper, and that all co-authors have seen and approved the final version of the paper and have agreed to its submission for publication. All those who have made significant contributions should be listed as co-authors. Others who have participated in certain substantive aspects of the research project should be acknowledged or listed as contributors.

Disclosure and conflicts of interest:

All authors should disclose in their manuscript any financial or other substantive conflict of interest that might be construed to influence the results or interpretation of their manuscript. All sources of financial support for the project should be disclosed.
